

Rafael's love for travel dates back to almost 25 years ago, when he first joined American Airlines as an airport agent, later on moving into Corporate Travel Management as a member of the Travel Services Department for the American Bar Association (one of the largest professional associations in the US, with well over 500,000 members worldwide), where he was in charge of their Global Hospitality RFP Program and other member-focused travel benefit negotiations.

A two-term former Vice President for the Chicago Business Travel Association, and current Vice President for LABTA, Rafael is currently a member of the Account Management Services team for Protravel International (a part of the Internova Travel Group, Formerly Travel Leaders Group), with a focus on Enterprise Accounts within the Midwest and Western Regions of the US.